Mary K. Connor, Chairman of the Board of Selectmen and Selectman Wally Johnson (far right) present Bertil Lundquist with the Boston Post Oldest Citizen Cane.

SUTTON - Bertil Lundquist, 96, of Boston Road, was presented with the Boston Post Oldest Citizen Cane on December 20 at Sutton High School. The event was hosted by the High School's National Honor Society, and was tied in with an annual inter-generational holiday program sponsored jointly by the Society and the Sutton Council on Aging.

Lundquist was born in Stockholm, Sweden, in 1894. At age 18, he emigrated to the United States to work as a painter and interior decorator. In 1918 he began work at Stenberg and Co., Inc., Worcester, as a painter. In 1935, he purchased the Company and was its owner until 1973 when he retired.

Retirement did not mean and end to work for Lundquist, however. At age 83, he handcrafted the flag pole that stands at his front walkway. At age 90, he painted his entire house. These days, he passes his time by reading and visiting with family.

Lundquist lives with his wife of 40 years, Lillian. His son Donald lives in Paxton and another son lives in California.

Lundquist says he is proud to be a citizen of this country, which has been so good to him.

Drop a line

The Millbury-Sutton Chronicle is publishing the addresses of area residents serving in the military in the Middle East so that anyone wishing to send a card or letter to offer their support may do so.

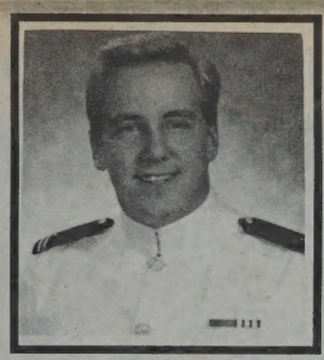
This week we have featured Sgt. John Webb of the U.S. Air Force and 2nd Assistant Marine Engineer Bruce Hjort of the Merchant Marines.

Sgt. John Webb

Sgt. Webb is a crew chief on the stealth bomber. He and his wife, Susi, have a daughter, Danielle, and two sons, Robert and Michael.

Sgt. Webb is the son of Jean and Jerrill Webb, of Oxford, formerly of Millbury. He has two sisters, Sharon Capistron of Sutton and Doreen Parker of Millbury. His brother, Steven Webb, is an officer of the Millbury Police Department.

You can reach Sgt. Webb at the following address: Sgt. John B. Webb, 028628656, Operation Desert Shield, 37th TFW Deployed, 416 AMU-MAABA, APO NY, 09671-500.



2nd Eng. Bruce Hjort

Bruce Hjort is the son of Wayne and Sandra Hjort of Millbury. He is a 1984 graduate of Millbury High School and a 1988 graduate of Massachusetts Maritime Academy. He is presently employed as a 2nd Assistant Marine Engineer with Interocean Management Company. He is responsible for taking supplies from various areas in Europe to the troops in Saudi Arabia.

You can reach Hjort at the following address: 2nd Eng. Bruce Hjort, Cape Nome, Interocean Management, 3 Parkway-Suite 1300, Philadelphia, PA 19102.

If you have a relative whose address you would like published, please mail it to: Millbury-Sutton Chronicle, 117 Elm Street, Millbury, MA 01527. Photos are also welcome.

Santa Claus Receives Citation From House

SUTTON - Representative Richard Moore (D-Uxbridge) presents a citation from the Massachusetts House of Representatives to Santa Claus (a.k.a. Harvey Bileau) for his "untiring" efforts in raising over $1,000 toward a recreation field and playground in Manchaug.

Bileau, a member of the Sutton Recreation Commission, spent the weekend of December 14-16 (48 hours) perched on his hand-made Santa chair, spreading Christmas cheer to all who stopped by.

Santa is surrounded by some of the many children who stopped by over the weekend.

Another Point of View

Health Care Problems

By Lawrenc e Moore

It should come as no surprise that the cost of health care has reached ridiculous levels. State Representative Kevin O'Sullivan of Worcester has addressed himself to the problem as related to "public" health facilities. He proposes that there should be more cooperation and less duplication among the UMass Medical Center, City Hospital, the Belmont Home, Worcester County Hospital and Rutland Heights Hospital. In doing so, he recommends an area-wide realignment of publicly-funded health providing institutions.

While health services delivered by this group are important and vital to a sector of the community, in the total scheme of things, it is a fraction of the problem.

More serious problems exist in health care delivery for the insured, the elderly and the pay-for-services population.

Ten years ago, Central Massachusetts hospital services were available at City Hospital, Hahnemann, Memorial, Doctors', Fairlawn, Holden, St. Vincent, UMass, Milford-Whitinsville, Harrington in Southbridge, Hubbard in Webster, Clinton, Burbank in Fitchburg, Heywood in Gardner, Leominster and Nashoba in Ayer.

Drastic changes have taken place in the non-public area. Doctors' and Fairlawn no longer are acute care facilities; Holden has closed. Between 1984 and 1989 all hospitals except Memorial and UMass served fewer patients. Excluding UMass, in 5 years patient count has dropped 17.27% or 15,769 patients. In five years, Memorial has increased 149 patients and UMass 1753 patients. Totally, Central Massachusetts hospitals served 14,016 (13.73%) fewer patients in 1989 than in 1984.

Both Memorial and UMass have grown, but their patient-resident lists read like a geographical gazetteer of Massachusetts. In addition, Memorial serviced 270 patients from out of state. UMass served 924 patients from out of state, including 92 outside New York and New England, and five from overseas, 7.4% of its patient count.

The elderly patient count has dropped also, but not nearly as rapidly. Among the elderly, only UMass increased its count, by 769. Among hospital excluding UMass, the elderly patient count dropped 13.33%. Even including UMass' gain, the elderly count dropped 10.21%.

These figures are a clue to the seriousness of our health care problem. What they mean is not that people are healthier, but that alternate services have grown. As hospitals and medical costs skyrocketed, peer review of physician care, Medicare - imposed limits on hospital stays, and profit pressure combined to change the health care system. Out patient surgery and emergency room treatment increased. Physicians did more day surgery in their own clinics/offices. Physician-owned and independent diagnostic laboratories took over work formerly done in the hospitals.

These and other attempts to "control" or to "bypass" the system resulted in for many an almost unaffordable increase in medical insurance costs. Today, "coverage at any cost" is a growing problem.

Other services have been taking up some of the slack. "Have Been" are the important words. Medicaid, nursing home beds, and elder home care are caught in the fiscal grip affecting both State and National funding. Medicaid is called a "budget buster," and home care patient counts have dropped dramatically. All alternate services are being curtailed.

As hospital facilities shrink, beds are no longer easily available. The load on doctors increases, so that appointments are scheduled months in advance. As facilities are concentrated, testing and diagnostic services are delayed. Clinton, Holden before it closed, Hubbard, Nashoba, UMass and City no longer have maternity services.

The cost of a medical education is forcing more and more graduates to specialize in order to make enough to pay off their tuition loans. Consequently, general practitioners are limited or non-existent in many areas. It is no longer unheard of for people not to have a family physician.

Ambulance service, if you are unfortunate enough to need it, has become very high tech and very expensive. If you don't have insurance, the bill could have a serious impact on your health as well as your pocketbook.

While the legislature should be concerned with publicly-run health care problems, there is a need for reassessment of the entire health delivery system. As our population grows, and as our population grows older, the demand for medical services will increase. It should be the responsibility of each county medical society to undertake short, intermediate and long term evaluations of the need for and the method of providing health care in the future. We are able to predict the need for each of the individual specialties and for general practice. Having determined that need, cooperation and correlation among colleges, medical schools and health professionals is a must. County by county, hospitals, doctors, diagnostic services, specialties, surgery, outpatient care, institutional care, and home care should be organized by the providers to provide efficient and affordable service. Duplication and waste should be eliminated.

If the providers don't do it, the pressure will build for "socialized medicine," a solution which will be a giant leap backward for the United States, its doctors and its patients.

To provide these services is a responsibility we can no longer leave to chance, competition, politics or economic pressures.

DPU Approves Water Rate Hike

HINGHAM - Massachusetts-American Water Company Manager Eugene R. Babin has announced that the Department of Public Utilities of Massachusetts has approved a reduced amount of the requested rate increase. The Department has approved an average 18.6% rate increase which would increase the annual revenues to the utility by some $885,718. The new rate schedule will be applicable to service rendered on or after January 1991.

In addition, the Department agreed to two sets of tariffs. Consumers in Millbury and Oxford will share one schedule; consumers in Hingham, Hull, Cohasset and Norwell will have bills calculated by a second schedule.

It was also announced that a proposal to amend the procedure for collecting for emergency fire protection fees was not approved. The towns will continue to pay for this service rather than the water users.

Debt Collection Topic of Breakfast

UXBRIDGE - The fundamentals of debt collection will be examined at a Blackstone Valley Chamber of Commerce membership breakfast on Tuesday, January 8, from 7:30 to 9 a.m. at the Cocke 'N Kettle Restaurant, 240 South Main Street.

Richard R. Hubbard, a local attorney, will discuss a number of debt collection issues pertaining especially to small business owners. Among them, safeguards to take before an account becomes delinquent; how to analyze overdue account receivables; and when to use the services of a collection agency or attorney. A question and answer period will conclude the program.

Cost of the breakfast is $10 per person in advance and $15 after the January 3 deadline. To register, contact Sandra Haagsma at 753-2924 or 1-800-244-2924.

Twelve awards of $500 will be given in 1991. New England teachers of all grade levels and subject areas are eligible to apply. The awards will be based on the submission of curriculum that uses biography for more effective teaching of American history, focuses on the political process, analyzes a particular episode in American history or teaches about the nature and use of historical evidence through the use of primary sources.

On The Shelf

By Rosemary Waltos

Much of the world thought that the first half of 1990 would set the tone for the final decade of the century. It seemed the world was on the verge of peace in harmony; the Soviet Union embraced the West, the Berlin Wall fell, Germany reunited, Poland voted out the Communist Party and Rumania and other Soviet Block countries sought liberation. There was a promise in the air of renewed economic growth for all, with new markets opening up. Blacks and whites also rejoiced as at long last South Africa made long awaited moves toward reform. Finally, there was renewed interest in the environment and global responsibility towards it.

The second half of 1990 seemed to push aside the days of peace and harmony. The spotlight on economic growth dimmed in Eastern Europe. Infighting and white backlash exploded in South Africa. Tension in the Middle East erupted into a near war, the S&L crisis unraveled for all to see, and the Soviet Union lost some of its already shaky confidence in Western style economic reforms. On the local scene, the economy worsened with the boom of the 90's behind us and the reality of unemployment looming for many.

Keeping informed of local, national and world events is not easy. The thinking individual absorbs information from a variety of sources. These sources range from personal experiences to the visual statements on the television and silver screen to the printed word in newspapers, magazines and books. The place where you can find many of these materials, except maybe the nightly news, is the Millbury Public Library.

While budget cuts have forced us to reduce our magazine and newspaper collection, you can still get local newspapers, Sunday's Boston Globe, and the Wall Street Journal for daily coverage of local and world events. Once the fresh newspaper print rubs off on your hands, there's the library's collection of news magazines such as Time, Newsweek, and U.S. News and World Report.

Beyond the glossy pages of the news magazines are books. The best of nonfiction covering current events and problems places problems and events in historical context, defines them, discusses their broader implications, and contributes possible solutions. For inclusion into our collection we look for books that communicate clearly and effectively to readers.

Below is a listing of some of the up-to-date nonfiction titles you'll find at the library covering today's events.

From My Window on Farnsworth Court

By "Pastor Rae" Cameron

I find it handy to always carry a clean handkerchief. This week I used one on two different occasions. The first was on Christmas Day when I was with one of my thirteen grandchildren and he had a nose that needed attention. The other occasion was when I gave it to my Santa Claus partner of whom I wrote last week. Her husband, Roger Bourdeau, was being worked on by the ambulance personnel who did all they could for Roger, but to no avail.

Someone complained to me that I didn't write enough. Well, I'd rather have it that way than the other and write too much. But on this occasion, I could write enough to fill up the whole newspaper. Roger Bourdeau was one outstanding individual, and along with his wife they were the very best that God could give to us.

It was always a joy to go across the street and visit with Roger, but you had to know that he wouldn't stop whatever it was he was doing. He would talk to you and make you feel very important, but you had to chase around with him because he was always doing something.

I had the joy of being asked by Roger to speak at his wife's surprise birthday party right after I came to Millbury. And then I went to his retirement party after he retired from being a public school teacher. On that occasion, my wife won the wooden apple that was the centerpiece on the table. Later I attended his daughter's wedding, and my wife and I won the beautiful triple heart centerpiece for having the closest wedding date to that wedding. Both of these pieces were made by Roger himself.

Just this Fall, I was among the gang of us who attended a barbershop quartet program at Mechanics Hall and then back to the Bourdeaus house for Roger's birthday party. Even more recently, the Bourdeaus and I attended the Mantovani concert, again at Mechanics Hall. What beautiful occasions these were for all of us.

And now I'll be attending his funeral, if I can get into the church, which I'm sure will be filled to overflowing. As with his life, so now in his death many beautiful things have happened. One of the most touching scenes was when his wife explained to her two grandchildren that Pepere was now with Jesus. Thank God for our Christian faith, however we express it. Roger, goodbye dearest friend. You will be missed by us all, but we rejoice in your new heavenly home. Amen.

P.S. Correction from last week: Mrs. Bourdeau works for Holy Cross and not Notre Dame.

Oh, Christmas Tree! Oh, Christmas Tree!
Whatever Shall I Do With Thee!

Keeping In Touch

Seventh graders at Millbury High School prepare to communicate, by computer, with a school in Connecticut.

MILLBURY - Project Scrapbook USA at Millbury High School has taken 59 junior high students into their first venture into telecommunications. From October through December, 1990, students shared essays with over 400 students from 12 Scrapbook USA partner schools across the United States.

"Scrappers," as the students were called, first met with their teachers in the computer/writing lab to brainstorm information and write letters describing their geographical location, school, and class characteristics.

The next step was a national exchange of student writing, referred to as "verbal postcards." Each student chose an object, person, or a place, describing it vividly so that students in other parts of the country would understand the importance of that object, person, or scene to the writer.

In stage three of the program, students formed peer groups in their English classes, read their assigned downloaded essays, and wrote one line comments to writers. After peer editing, Scrappers met and sent their comments over the wires back to the writers.

On December 17, students participated in "The Great Finale" by "chatting" on-line to other students across the Nation in the project.

The essays will eventually be sent through America-On-Line to Soviet Siberia where they will be read and enjoyed by Soviet students.

The Spirit of Giving

SUTTON - The spirit of giving filled the air recently when Sutton Cub Scout Pack 243 worked on a service project. While several mothers packed home-baked cookies brought to the pack meeting by each scout, the Cub Scouts decorated the canisters and the Webelos Scouts designed personalized gift tags. These gifts of yummy Christmas cheer were later delivered to the elderly and shut-ins throughout Sutton.

During the awards ceremony, Wolf Cub Zachary Bishop and Webelos Scout Christopher Wilke were presented with their Pack 243 T-shirts. During a recent contest, Zachary drew the winning T-shirt design and Christopher's entry for Pack nickname was chosen.

The following Webelos Activity Pins were also presented: Tony Scricco, Naturalist, Readyman, Scientist, Artist; Kevin Scricco, Scientist, Artist; Jason Petrie, Artist; Joshua Suhl, Artist, Scientist; Ryan Brown, Artist, Outdoorsman; Thomas Campbell, Fitness, Handyman, Outdoorsman, Readyman; Timothy Carter, Forester, Outdoorsman; Marc Vigeant, Outdoorsman; Allen DeVincent, Traveler, Outdoorsman; Alex Hebert, Athlete, Fitness, Forester, Handyman, Naturalist, Outdoorsman; Paul Henrickson, Aquanaut; David Spinney, Fitness, Outdoorsman; Christopher Wilke, Artist, Traveler.

Religious Knots went to Peter Lefferts for "God and Me" and Matthew Carlson for "God and Family."

Organ Donor Awareness Patches went to Kevin Scricco, Tony Scricco, Joshua Suhl, Matthew Carlson, and Jason Petrie.

Soccer Pins and Sports Letters were presented to Alex Hebert, Eric Jones, and Christopher Windle.

Sports Belt Loops went to: Marbles - Matthew Blanchard, Eric Jones, Christopher Windle; Archery - Eric Jones, Christopher Windle; Swimming - Eric Jones, Christopher Windle, David Spinney, Timothy Carter, Alex Hebert; Ultimate - Christopher Wilke.

MOTHER GOOSE AND GRIMM
BY
MZ GOOSE...I'M CONFUSED. CAN YOU TELL ME THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN MICHELANGELO AND LEONARDO?
WHO CES, HAM. I'M JUST AMAZED THAT YOU'RE INTERESTED IN ART.
LET'S SEE... LEONARDO AND MICHELANGELO WERE CONTEMPORARIES...
LEONARDO WAS A GREAT PAINTER...HIS MOST FAMOUS PAINTINGS WERE THE MONA LISA AND THE LAST SUPPER.
MICHELANGELO WAS A GREAT PAINTER AND SCULPTOR. HIS STATUES CONVEYED A SENSE OF GRANDEUR AND POWER.
HIS MOST FAMOUS PAINTINGS WERE THE FRESCOES ON THE CEILING OF THE SISTINE CHAPEL. NOW THEN...DOES THAT HELP?
WELL, NOT REALLY...
PSST.
LEONARDO HAS A BLUE MASK, MICHELANGELO HAS ORANGE.
